

SUNDIALS REVISITED

10 REASONS TO REVISIT SUNDIALS

1. To have an interesting day out in town and country.
2. To practise map reading, planning and navigation skills.
3. To make sure the dial is still there and where it should be.
4. To check previous details especially location, - satellite technology can expose indifferent map references.
5. To record changes to the site, - new buildings, vegetation, roads and paths - accessibility.
6. To record repair and restoration and, conversely, damage, vandalism, deterioration and corrosion.
7. To shed records, - revised garden, building and church guides and handbooks may be available.
8. To produce better photographs - photographic technology is always changing.
9. To find sundials which have not yet been recorded - inevitable with any well planned safari.
10. To give the BSS Regulars something to do!

John Ingham